The New Jersey Community Transportation Training Program (NJCTTP) is proud to sponsor the CTAA Certified Safety and Security Officer (CSSO) certification workshop. This training will be delivered on April 29th and 30th at the Harrah's Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City, NJ.

The mission of this Certified Safety and Security Officer program is to assist in improving the professional preparedness of public and community transportation managers, and to maximize their ability to provide safe and secure transit service. The program is designed to help managers build the transportation organization, enhance the professionalism of its internal team, safely serve its customers, and fulfill its responsibilities in assisting in community emergency preparedness.

This certification program fully prepares community and public transportation professionals to review their operations for safety and security in the critical components and core elements of the Federal Transit Administration's (FTA) Bus Safety and Security Program.

Workshop participants will learn how to conduct interviews and employ techniques useful in identifying and addressing all the benchmarks found in the FTA program's nine critical areas. Participants will also review transit safety and security case studies.
